Really sorry how late I've been sending out stuff for the past few days!

So we need to divvy up the presentation between the four of us since Hieu's gonna be out on Wednesday. I figured we could each claim a part of the presentation, write up the slides for our part, send them out to the group, and then we would combine them into one cohesive presentation. I'll bring the presentation up to Stringfellow early Wednesday to get her feedback and relay it to everyone for last minute adjustments.

Here's what I had in mind for the content and organization of the presentation.

Title page
Overview of presentation

1. Problem Description
2. Methods of Collaboration
3. Team Organization
4. Schedule Timeline
5. Documents
   Requirements Document
   Planning Document
   Design Document
6. Diagrams
   UML Diagram
   Sequence Diagram
   Use Case Diagram
   System Architecture
7. User Interface
8. Software Development Life Cycle
   Requirements Analysis
   Design
   Implementation
9. What remains to be done

Conclusion/References (if we have any references)

Send out an email with what parts you want to talk about or any changes to the structure of the presentation. Sorry again how last minute all of this is!

I call dibs on the diagrams and UI if you all don't mind. I'm also open to doing another section if needed.

Sounds good! Look at the other email with the updated sections, you'll be taking the four before the conclusion. Sanan said he would do the first three and he also suggested changing bullet points to not be complete sentences.

Anne, do you have a preference over which three slides you wanna take?

Don't forget to have a summary slide and a slide for the schedule and network diagram.

I don't mind - maybe previous version to big picture plan? And sorry James I didn't exactly follow your guideline, I totally didn't look at your email before I started working... :o

As for the complete sentences, I was working late last night and just did some copying and pasting from the documents. I'm gonna make some adjustments and add the schedule stuff and then push it up. After that, please anyone edit to your liking.

Only did a little bit more to presentation. If yall have any suggestions, go ahead and throw them in yourself (I guess make sure no one else is working on it tho..), I always end up taking your suggestions anyway so it would save time just putting them in when you see it instead of me having to go compare (I want to be done working on this presentation lol).

Last thing from me, we need more feedback on the design document so we can turn it in tomorrow. Rest of y'all do some reviewing and editing and pushing! :)

Thanks team
